LONGER WEEK
PROPOSED FOR COAL MINERSPRODUCERS' FIRST
OFFERS SPURNED
BY LEWIS

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Four counter proposals by mine operators to John L. Lewis today brought from the United Mine Workers' chief the rejoinder that the miners had "asked for bread and received a stone."

The producers proposed that the industry substitute a standard 40-hour week for the present 35 hours for purposes of computing overtime, and demanded a guarantee from Lewis against wildcat strikes.

Safety Contract Demanded

After listening throughout the day to operator spokesmen replying to his demands, Lewis emphasized his insistence on a health and welfare fund for mine workers and significantly told the producers:

"If you work after April 1 in your mines—and I suppose you hope to remain in business—what are you going to do about it, continue killing men, filling up the hospitals, hauling men to remote institutions?"

"Are you going to join with us in writing provisions of a contract that will make these mines safe? Are you going to join with us in preventing the looting of mine workers by the rapacity of some of these companies?"

Federal Agencies Blamed

Lewis' reply to the operators' statements late in the day brought nearer the end of open conference sessions and a start on actual negotiating by a committee of miners and operators.

In a four-point reply to Lewis' nine general demands, the operators expressed a wish "to negotiate a contract" before April 1, when the United Mine Workers has indicated it means to terminate the present contract. A strike imminence on that date if no understanding is reached beforehand.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, blamed government agencies which he did not identify for causing strikes in 1943 and 1945 and said the recent foremen decision of the National Labor Relations Board "conceivably might cause another nationwide strike."

The UMW struck last October over this issue of unionization of foremen. The NLRB decided 10 days ago that some supervisory workers had a right to join Lewis' United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees Union.

The operators' counter proposals, which they said would establish "stable conditions in the industry" and "eliminate wildcat strikes":

1. Suitable guarantee by the union against wildcat strikes and slowdowns in production.
2. A redefinition of qualifications for vacation pay.
3. Elimination of pay for lunch periods.
4. Substitution of eight hours for seven hours and 40 hours for 35 hours as the point at which overtime payment begins. They said this would conform with the standard work-day and week established by federal legislation.

"Negligence" Denied
The basic hourly rate now is $1. but the soft coal miner receives $1.50 for the eighth and ninth hour in the mine daily. One hour of this is premium working time. The other hour includes 15 minutes lunch allowance and 45 minutes for underground travel.

The miner may work a maximum of 54 hours a week in six days of nine hours each.

Under the proposal the miner's pay for 40 hours would be $40 instead of $42.50 as at present if

Runaway Milwaukee
Heiress Is Located
Working In Detroit

Detroit, March 18 (AP)—Suzanne Froedtert, 16-year-old heiress to a grain and malt fortune, was ordered held overnight while police unraveled details of her runaway flight from an exclusive Madison, Wis., school.

Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien also directed that a 24-year-old once-married man, whom he identified as Ollie J. Williams, be held for further questioning. O'Brien said Williams accompanied the girl on a bus from Wisconsin a week ago.

No charges have been placed and the prosecutor, after conferring by telephone with Suzanne's father, Kurtis Froedtert, a Milwaukee, Wis., multimillionaire, indicated that none are pending.

However, O'Brien directed that both the girl and the man appear in his office Tuesday to make formal statements and turned them back into the custody of Highland Park police.

Remains In Cell

Chief John A. Hoffman, declining a request from representatives of the Froedtert family release Suzanne to their custody, said she will remain in a private cell in Highland Park station.

After talking with Froedtert, who is in Miami Beach, Fla., O'Brien said the father "does not want to prosecute" and added "he is not a vengeful man."

"He is very broken up about what happened to his daughter," the prosecutor declared.

O'Brien said there is no evidence that either the girl or the man held are guilty of an misconduct and added that he is "very doubtful" that the case will be prosecuted further.

RULE OF UNRRA
IS CHALLENGEDEnlarged Board Favored
For Deciding World's Food Relief

BY SIGRID ARNE

Atlantic City, N. J., March 18 (AP)—The dominant position of the major world powers in international agencies was challenged here today by two suggestions made by the council meeting of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

UNRRA's director general, Herbert H. Lehman, suggested that the combined food board, through which the world's short food supplies are now allocated by only three nations—the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada—be enlarged.

And N. I. Feonov, speaking for the Soviet Union, asked that the central committee of UNRRA, which has authority to decide world relief policies, be enlarged to take in two of the smaller nations, Poland and Yugoslavia.

Sebastiao Sampaio, Brazil's ambassador to Mexico, pointed out in a long and somewhat emotional address to the UNRRA council that "you have not one voice from all of Latin America—20 nations—sitting on the committee which must decide the food problems of the world."

In a surprise move today, the United States and the United Kingdom, acting together, requested and won a vote to put over until tomorrow debate on the admission of Turkey and Albania, two smaller powers, to membership in UNRRA. The request was made by C. Tyler Wood, acting chief of the U. S. delegation.

Forest Industries
Modernizing Board
Urged By Dillman

Madison, Wis., March 18 (AP)—A permanent organization to aid all states in modernization of forest industries was advocated today by Dr. Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, of Houghton, Mich.

Dillman suggested such an organization at the opening session of a conference of 100 representatives of state and Federal forest products research agencies. It was the first such meeting ever called.

Dillman said that forest industries were technologically undeveloped and that in this field lay great potentialities for expansion of wood processing industries based upon wood waste as raw material.

CANAL CHANGE STUDIED

Philadelphia, March 18 (AP)—A proposal to convert the Panama Canal into a sea-level type canal so as to make it less vulnerable in the event of an atomic bomb attack will be discussed here tomorrow, by U. S. Army officers.

Manufacturers Beat
OPA In Chart Bout

BY ARTHUR EDSON

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Chart-loving OPA was beaten at its own game today. And by the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) at that.

It long has been known in Washington that an OPA man would as soon go before a Congressional committee without his pants as without charts.

Today the charts were turned. The NAM came before the House banking and currency committee to holler, "OPA must go!" and the NAM wasn't satisfied with mere graphs. The whole speech was lettered on cardboard three feet wide by four feet high.

"Yes, the entire speech," beamed Floyd Williamson, NAM publicity chief. "Ingenious, eh?"

Williamson said that much as the NAM hates OPA, it secretly admires its charts with the explanatory lettering underneath.

"Very effective," Williamson conceded to a reporter.

So when Robert R. Wason, NAM president, was preparing testimony for his appearance before the committee, charts came in for a lot of heavy thinking.

Said Williamson: "I believe it was Mr. Wason himself who finally said, 'What the hell! Let's put the whole thing on charts! So we did.'"

The speech, painted artistically in letters six inches high, took 112 cardboard.

These were placed on a stand facing the committee so that the legislators could read right along with Wason.

When Wason finished a page, it was whisked away and set up on the other side of the stand. Then the spectators could read for themselves what Wason had just said.

"Tell me," said Williamson, "how did it go? Pretty good, eh?"

GOERING STICKS
WITH HITLERISM

Former Marshal Regrets
He Didn't Have More
Reprisal Weapons

BY WES GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, March 18 (AP)—Hermann Goering, questioned publicly by one of his accusers for the first time, clung doggedly to Nazi doctrine today, reaffirmed his devotion to Hitler, and regretted he did not have more bombers and V-weapons for reprisals against Britain in the closing days of the war.

Under cross examination by Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, the former reichsmarschall displayed an attitude in sharp contrast to that of many Nazi leaders facing the international military tribunal. Most of the others have attempted to show they secretly had opposed Hitler and plotted his overthrow.

Jackson asked Goering to name any of his fellow defendants who "did not cooperate to the end as far as possible" with Hitler's aims. Goering replied "none of them was in opposition or obstructed the Fuehrer at any time." He added, however, that differentiation in periods of time must be taken into consideration.

Much of Goering's defiant testimony sounded almost word for word like the official Nazi party line before the war. Under attack by Jackson for remaining German, he smiled sardonically and quoted the proverb: "Whoever has a strong sword has peace." Asked if he still held that opinion, he retorted "more and more, as I see developments today."

Friendship Pacts
Are Invited By Tito

Warsaw, March 18 (AP)—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia declared today he would sign a friendship and mutual assistance pact between Poland and Yugoslavia which is being drafted during his visit to Poland.

Tito said the pact probably would be for 15 to 20 years. He said Yugoslavia was ready to sign similar pacts with "all peace-loving nations."

SOVIET 5-YEAR
PLAN APPROVEDOutput To Be Stepped Up One And One Half
Times Prewar Level

Moscow, March 18 (AP)—The Supreme Soviet adopted unanimously today Russia's new five-year plan, calling for increasing the nation's production one and one-half times the prewar level by 1950 and providing for extensive research in atomic power.

The plan was adopted by both the Council of the Union and the Council of Nationalities, meeting separately.

An appropriation of 100,000,000 rubles (approximately $8,333,000) was suggested for equipping scientific laboratories and institutions in the Ukraine, as Soviet scientists in the Supreme Soviet agreed that the challenge in the plan to outstrip scientific accomplishments of other countries would not be easy to meet.

The new five-year plan was presented to the Supreme Soviet Friday night by N. A. Voznesensky, head of the state planning department. The plan provides for doubling heavy industry, a three to four-fold increase in automobile production, one and one-half increase in chemical production, and a 17 per cent increase in the output of the food products industry.

Under the plan, annual iron production would reach 19,000,000 tons; steel, 25,000,000 tons; coal, 250,000,000 tons; oil, 35,000,000 tons, and electric power output would be 85,000,000,000 kilowatt hours.

Iranian embassy officials in London said that the Tehran government also took this position. An embassy spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that Premier Ahmed Quavam es Saltaneh is now negotiating with the Russians.

He said, however, that it was "highly improbable" in view of an Iranian law prohibiting oil talks until foreign troops were evacuated.

Developments in Iran remain cloaked in secrecy.

A dispatch from Ankara said last night that the inability of Ankara radio to pick up Tehran broadcasts caused considerable interest as the Turkish capital watched the Iranian border where the Russians were reported to have sent reinforcements.

In Moscow the Iranian situation was ignored by Pravda, the only morning newspaper published on Mondays. Soviet newspapers have printed none of the reports which came out of Tehran last week.

Washington dispatches said American officials believed the Russians may try either to break the resistance of the present Iranian government or pull off a coup d'etat to put a new government in power. The immediate object, it was said, was to get official Iranian authority for the presence of Red army troops in Iran.

Japanese Admiral
Nagano Arrested
As War Criminal

Tokyo, Tuesday, March 19 (AP)—Fleet Admiral Osami Nagano, the man who gave the final order for the Pearl Harbor attack, was confined to Sagami prison early today as a war-criminal suspect, the Japanese central liaison office said.

The Japanese said the order for his arrest was issued Saturday and Japanese officials journeyed to Shikoku Island for him. Nagano, who often said that he expected arrest, had gone to visit his family home.

The 66-year-old wartime naval chief of staff told the Associated Press some time ago that he would take "full responsibility" for the Pearl Harbor attack. He said he personally broke the Japanese naval deadlock over whether to attack The Netherlands East Indies or Hawaii.

Bagdad, March 18 (AP)—Sandbag levees protected Bagdad from vast flood waters of the Tigris today but four square miles of the Rashid military camp were under six feet of water.

Baruch Gets Job
Of Making Atom
Work For Peace

BY GORDON BROWN

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, elder statesman, today tackled perhaps the most imposing problem of his long career—making the atom work for peace instead of war.

Drafted by President Truman as the United States representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission, Baruch immediately announced this team of "alternates and co-workers" who will labor with him on the task that may determine the future of humanity:

John Hancock, Wall Street banker who worked with Baruch on his rubber and post-war reports;

Ferdinand Eberstadt, New York investment banker and lawyer and former vice chairman of the wartime War Production Board;

Herbert Bayard Swope, publicist and journalist who was Baruch's assistant on the War Industries Board in World War One, and Fred Searls, noted New York mining engineer who was a dollar-AA year man with the government in several capacities during the war. He was special assistant to Eberstadt on WPB and also was special assistant on munitions for the Office of War Mobilization and Reconstruction. He now is a consultant to Secretary of State Byrnes.

Baruch said such American scientists as James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, Dr. Vannevar Bush, who headed the war work of American scientific laboratories, and Dr. Arthur H. Compton, president of Washington University, "will give us the necessary scientific guidance."

"I approach the subject with an open mind and will do the best I can," he said in a statement. "I shall have nothing further to say at any time other than in the report to the security council that will be made by my ten associates and myself."

The atomic energy commission was established by the United Nations general assembly last January in London.

Creation of the commission was urged by Secretary of State Byrnes who told the assembly it was necessary to save the world from an atomic armaments race.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Baruch's nomination will go to the Senate tomorrow.

Baruch told a reporter that Byrnes talk with him yesterday about the appointment and "I felt it my duty to accept."

He said he had no comment to make now on the commission's work and referred an interviewer to the resolution adopted by the United Nations which specifies that the commission shall recommend proposals:

- 1—For extending between nations exchange of basic scientific information for peaceful ends;
- 2—For control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to insure its use only for peaceful purposes;
- 3—For the elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons and all other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

4—For effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violations and evasions.

AT U. S. A. AND BRITAIN

BY HARRY T. MONTGOMERY

Ottawa, March 18 (AP)—Documents seized in connection with Soviet espionage operations in Canada have disclosed that this country had been "used as a base to secure information of great importance to the United States and the United Kingdom," Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told Parliament tonight.

In spite of the gravity with which he viewed the Moscow-directed espionage activities, King made a strong stand for maintenance of friendly relations with the Soviet government, saying he was sure that "Stalin would not countenance action of this kind."

King said he even considered at one point going to see Stalin himself.

Audience Hushed

The prime minister, speaking for 90 minutes to a hushed audience in his first detailed announcement of the case, did not elaborate as to the nature of the information sought in the United States and Great Britain, but he did say that it was a matter of "utmost concern" to those two countries.

In view of this, King said, he felt it his duty to inform both countries immediately, and did so after he became aware of the espionage network last September.

Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament accused of conspiracy and violating the official secrets act in connection with the spy network investigation, was in his seat as King delivered his official statement. Among one of the largest crowds ever to fill the public galleries were several others accused of being members of the network and now at liberty under bail.

King disclosed also that one of the reasons for delaying public announcement of the case until Feb. 15, even though his government first learned of the operations last fall, was to avoid disrupting relations between Russia and the western powers during the foreign ministers' meeting in Moscow last December and the United Nations Organization meetings in London which followed it.

Mistake Avoided
Recalling that U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia met in Moscow in December, King asserted "that would not have been an appropriate moment" to announce the inquiry. There might have been the risk of his doing it to create "political differences," he said.

Then followed the meetings in London of the United Nations Assembly and Security Council. "It was essential," King told the House, "that these meetings be conducted with as little mistrust as possible."

King disclosed for the first time that the "espionage system had been in existence for three or four years." He was replying to a suggestion by members of the Canadian-Soviet friendship league that Russia had been driven to spying because the Allies had held out the "secret of the atomic bomb."

"The espionage system," King remarked, "had been in existence for three or four years in this country before anyone knew any—" thing about the atomic bomb."

One of the strongest points the prime minister made was his appeal for friendly relations with Russia.
In the press gallery were representatives of the Tass News Agency, Soviet government organization whose former Ottawa chief was named officially last week as having had a role in the ring.
The galleries were packed, hundreds having been turned away for lack of seating space.
King pointed out that since the actual inquiry "sub judice" little could be said of the operations of the ring, but beyond what already has been disclosed in successive reports of the two-man committee investigating it.
He admitted this was a "serious handicap," and then proceeded to tell how the espionage ring had first come to the attention of the government. He gave details of a story which had been told, involving a cipher clerk of the Soviet embassy, Igor Grouzenko, who had turned over documents dealing with the ring.
At first, King said, the government did not know how seriously to treat the disclosures, not knowing anything about Grouzenko. It soon developed, however, that Grouzenko had documents, some taken from the safe of the Soviet embassy, written in the handwriting of trusted Canadian government employees.
Further, Grouzenko was investigated thoroughly with the result that his evidence was accepted as authentic.
King continued earlier disclosures for his life and that of his wife and child after having turned to the Canadian government. King said Grouzenko had acted as he did because after two years of living in Canada and observing free elections and other things different from those in his own country he had concluded that he was best serving the people of both Canada and Russia by uncovering the espionage work.
Canada proceeded slowly after getting these disclosures, and has continued to do so, King said, because it was felt that "nothing should be done in any way to get the government of Canada to cause the Russian embassy to believe that Canada had the least suspicion."
"My impression from the outset," King said, "was that the situation was one where we could not move too carefully."
The central feature of Grouzenko's disclosures, King said, was that a "fifth column" was being created in Canada by Russian agents and through others. He added that "it extended very far."
The only communication between Canada and Russia on the matter, King said, had been those that already were known. When King announced on Feb. 15 that agents of "a foreign mission in Ottawa" had been found conducting these activities, the Russian attitude was called in and given before it was made public.
The second communication was the Moscow government's statement of a few days later, handed to the Canadian ambassador in Moscow, Dana Wilgress, as it was broadcast.

Artists Desert Left Bank As Inflation Hits Paris

In time of peace, American artists could paint on the Left Bank of the Seine for a mere pittance. Today, cost of models, paints and frames makes it unprofitable for the artists to live and paint in the Greenwich Village of Paris.

BY ROSETTE HARGROVE NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS (NEA)—Even the artists, who once made Paris and the Left Bank a mecca for tourists and world Bohemians, are feeling the pinch of the black market.
Before the war, for a mere pittance, struggling artists could live, love and paint in Montparnasse, the Greenwich Village of Paris. Studio rentals were cheap. So were canvases, frames and paints. Models were plentiful at 25 francs an hour.
So embryo artists flocked to Paris and to the Montparnasse in particular. Art schools prospered and even set up shops along the sidewalks.
With the arty atmosphere came tourists, and with the tourists, such spots as the "Dome" and the "Rotonde." Smaller bistros thrived. Someone even found money to subsidize the "Cercle Francois Villon," a club for destitute intellectuals.
The war changed all this when prices began their upward spiral. Today an artist, unless he has a ready market, cannot afford to paint. Models cost him 200 to 500 francs an hour. Studio rents are up 30 per cent, and the prices of paints and frames are 10 to 12 times what they were less than a decade ago.
With coal at 8,000 to 9,000 francs a ton, heat is just about out of the question. The result is that cause it was felt that "nothing should be done in any way to get the government of Canada to cause the Russian embassy to believe that Canada had the least suspicion."

Holdup Man Hunted In $15,000 Pontiac

Pontiac, Mich., March 18 (AP)—Police were searching tonight for two men who held up Maurice Cherney, proprietor of Allen's Jewelry store, as he opened the store and escaped with cash and rings valued at an estimated $10,000 to $15,000.
The men, Cherney told police, accosted him when he reached the store this morning. They forced him inside, he related, where they made him disconnect the burglar alarm and then open the safe.
While one man tied him and locked him in a back room, Cherney said the other looked the safe. The two then fled after scooping up an undetermined number of rings in addition to the cash in the safe and $400 carried by Cherney.

DEVELOP NEW WIND MACHINE

Equipment Provides Data On Upper Atmosphere Conditions

Washington, March 17—"Wind-finding" equipment, which provided data on conditions in the upper air vitally needed by the armed services, was developed during the war by the National Bureau of Standards, it is revealed today. Initially, the project involved means for increasing the usefulness of radiosonde, which automatically transmits, by radio, data on barometric pressure, humidity and temperature from different altitudes as the balloon carrying it ascends. The Navy also wanted data on the speed and direction of the wind.

The new device is known as a "pulsar," the Department of Commerce says, and is also called a re-emitter because it picks up signals and re-emits them back to a receiving station on the ground. In plain English, it is a two-way radio set which operates on the principle of amplitude modulation, widely used in broadcasting. Because this device requires a rather complicated antenna which swings from one position to another, it was found impracticable for installation on fighting ships because of their constant rolling.

The answer to the problem was found in the "corner cube reflector" and the "pulse repeater," which operated on ships without interfering with other equipment. The corner cube reflector operates on the same principle as the reflectors commonly found in road signs throughout the country. When a radio or radar signal strikes the corner cube reflector as it revolves under the small balloon by which it is borne aloft, it is reflected back to the ground or ship station.

Fire-control radar follows the balloon, just as it follows a plane in order to provide data for aiming anti-aircraft guns. From these data the naval meteorologist is able to trace the position of the corner cube reflector as it moves through the air and to determine the direction and speed of the wind. The pulse repeater is a small two-way unit which receives signals or pulses and repeats them in stronger volume. In addition to providing data on wind direction and speed for weather analysis, the device has a very definite application to ballistics, conditions for correction of fire-control data. The work of the National Bureau of Standards on wind-finding equipment was sponsored and financed by the Navy, which also made available to Bureau experts the Navy's modern radar laboratory on Chesapeake Bay.

Army Deserter, 21, Found Insane In Salesman Slaying

Grand Haven, Mich., March 18 (AP)—Robert F. Smith, 21-year-old Army deserter, charged with the first degree murder of a wealthy salesman, was ordered committed today to the Ionia state hospital for the criminally insane.
Ottawa Circuit Judge Fred T. Miles acted after a three-man state-appointed psychiatric board ruled the youth insane.
Smith was accused of shooting to death Roy Gordon Beh, 34, a neighbor of Henry Ford II in Grosse Pointe, Mich., last Dec. 20, near Holland, Mich.
Drs. Fred P. Currier, D. D. Davis and J. D. Mulder, told the court that Smith told them he shared a "secret" with his father, an inmate of an Elgin, Ill., mental institution and that he killed Beh because the latter "knew my secret."
The salesman had picked up the youth who was hitchhiking in a snowstorm.
The psychiatrists told Judge Miles that Smith suffers from "auditory hallucinations," and "delusions of persecution" and that he is "a typical" paranoic.
Under Michigan law, Smith must face the murder charge if his mental condition improves sufficiently to permit his release from the institution.

Runaway Girl Held In Detroit

attorney, and Joseph W. Hicks, a public relations counsel for the Groedert Grain & Malt Co., Inc., arrived in Detroit to seek Suzanne's release. She has been held since early Monday when police, acting on a tip, took her into custody in a Detroit rooming house.
Officers quoted her as saying she left exclusive Edgewood Academy in Madison, Wis., March 11 after teachers there refused her permission to attend a basketball game.

Furs and 50 Cents She arrived in Detroit a week ago, they said, dressed in furs and sequins but with only 50 cents in her purse.

The girl obtained employment as a chocolate dipper in a local candy factory, the officers said. A salary of $23 a week. A tri-state search by police and federal agents ended after Bennie Ivey told Highland Park police he believed the girl staying with his brother's family was the missing heiress.

The federal bureau of investigation, called into the case on the plea of Groedert, indicated its withdrawal today when the possibility of foul play vanished.

"We have found no evidence of the violation of any federal law" an FBI agent said.

Suzanne, locked in a cellblock by herself, slept intermittently during the day and ate a frugal meal served by her jailers. After the preliminary questioning, she was left alone to await the arrival of her father's attorney.

When she was first apprehended she denied her identity and produced a social security card bearing the name "Sue Muer." The rooming house where she was found is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmon A. Ivey.

Russia's Case Against Iran Will Be Put Up To UNO Council

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala is expected to announce tomorrow that he has been designated by his government to place Iran's case against Russia before the United Nations security council in New York next week.

Premier Ahmed Qavam Es Sultaneh announced in Tehran last week that his government would lay its case before the council again because his efforts to reach a settlement with Russia in recent discussions at Moscow had failed. Qavam, however, did not disclose how Iran would move for council consideration.

Tonight, Washington diplomatic reporters were summoned unexpectedly to the Iranian Embassy, where Gholam Abbas Aram, first secretary, had promised a press statement.

When reporters arrived at the embassy, however, Aram explained, with apologies, that the statement would be changed and that the statement would not be issued until late tomorrow morning.

He declined to disclose the contents of the statement, but informed diplomatic officials said it probably would announce the designation of Ambassador Ala as the Tehran government's representative to appear before the security council.

New Cameras Make Television Simple

Columbus, O., March 18 (AP)—A camera 100 times more sensitive than pre-war equipment will make television available commercially within six months, delegates to the sixth annual broadcast engineer conference were told today.
H. E. Rhea of Camden, N. J., said the camera was part of portable equipment eliminating brilliant lights and the accompanying aid conditioning to keep television subjects comfortable.

the present basic rate of $1 an hour is retained.

O'Neill and Harry M. Cokes, president of H. C. Frick Coke Company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, vigorously denied Lewis' charges of last week that the management and stockholders by "negligence" had "made dead" some 28,000 mine workers in 14 years.

While they protested bitterly Lewis' accusations, they were conciliatory when referring to a contract.

O'Neill responded, point by point, to Lewis' accusations in an "indictment" which he hurled at the operators last week. O'Neill said the 14 years picked by Lewis for his casualty figures were not the last 14 years and therefore did not reflect the progress in safety measures and consequent drop in death and injuries.

Ice Jams Repeat On Saginaw Bay; Cottages Nudged

Bay City, Mich., March 18 (AP)—Apprehensive shore-dwellers looked on uneasily today as huge pieces of ice began nudging Saginaw Bay cottages already damaged by a freak "glacier" March 9. A high wind drove across the bay sending the ice dangerously close to the 100 or more dwellings that were in the path of the earlier flow. New damage was reported to at

Governors Of World Bank Close Opening Meeting In Harmony

Savannah, Ga., March 18 (AP)—In an atmosphere of apparent harmony and international verbal back-slapping, Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson today closed the inaugural meeting of governors of the World Fund and Bank with a declaration that they are "now established and beginning to breathe as living organisms."

Representatives of eight nations rose one after another in a final plenary session to praise the work done here during the last 10 days. The governors applauded the chairmanship of Vinson—hitting in effect at reports prevalent during the conference that some felt the United States was assuming too dominant a position.

Thus the $5,130,000,000 bank and $8,800,000,000 fund were formally declared to be in existence. Actual lending and stabilizing activities, however, are still months away.

Earlier the governors elected, under a complex voting procedure, seven executive directors for the bank and a like number for the fund to go with the directorship seats automatically accorded to the United States, Britain, China, France and India.

The $17,000-a-year jobs, free of all taxes, were voted as forecast to Canada, Netherlands, Belgium, Poland, Greece, Chile and Cuba on the bank and Canada, Belgium, Netherlands, Mexico, Brazil, Egypt and Czechoslovakia on the fund.

Liquor Vendors In Meeting Yesterday

The Delta county Liquor and Beer Vendors association met yesterday afternoon at the city hall in Escanaba where Bob Best, secretary of the U. P. Liquor and Beer Vendors association, reported on the recent U. P. convention in Escanaba. Tom Swift, president of the county association, presided at the meeting.

Best also advised the licensees that officials of the U. P. association were to attend a Wednesday meeting of the State Advisory Council for licensees in Lansing. In the afternoon they were to meet with the members of the liquor control commission. Leaving yesterday for Lansing from the Upper Peninsula were Best, Sidney Stewart of Menominee, president of the U. P. association, Pete Mench of Sault Ste. Marie, and T. Off To Auctions In His Own Plane Maroa, Ill. (P)—Farmers often hurry to rural auctions to buy scarce agricultural equipment but few, if any, can keep pace with young James Stoutenborough. He takes off from his 400-acre farm in his two-seater plane, lands in a field near the site of the sale, bids on an item or two, and whizzes back home.

The minut, which the French brought to perfection, really began as a rustic dance.

RAPID RIVER ON RAMPAGE — Ice jams that blocked the flow of water down Rapid River and flooded adjacent fields and roads were dynamited yesterday morning by Delta county road commission crews, blasting open channels through which the water escaped to the bay. On County Road 1-18 at Maplewood the rising water inundated the highway until the ice jam was broken. Cars drove through a foot of water for several rods, and the road was threatened with a washout.

CARNEY DRIVER HURT

Menominee—Nels Waldo, 37, of Carney, was in serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital with head and body injuries following a car crash on US-41 in Carney at 5:40 p. m. yesterday.

Waldo, according to Sheriff Edward Reindl, was parked on US-41 and pulled onto the highway colliding with a truck being driven south on US-41 by Ralph Hansen, 220 Stephenson avenue, Menominee.

Waldo's car had a cardboard replacing a broken window in the driver's door, Reindl said. Waldo was thrown out of the car. Both his car and Hansen's truck were damaged.

ENGLISH BRIDE IMPRESSED

Menominee — Twenty-year-old Mrs. Edmond Chevalier, a pretty, blue-eyed charming Welsh girl, is the first war bride of a Menominee man to arrive in the city from England. She came Wednesday accompanied by her husband, who met her in Chicago. The young people will live with Chevalier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Onozim Chevalier on the Bay de Nocque road until they find living quarters here. Chevalier is employed by the Lloyd Manufacturing company.

"We had a perfectly marvelous trip and I think America is wonderful," Mrs. Chevalier said today. "It is everything I expected and I am not disappointed. The people are so friendly and my, all the stuff you have in your shops here. I can't get used to buying things and not having to give out ration coupons."

SERVES 50 YEARS

Houghton—On Tuesday, March 19, Sister Gervaise of St. Joseph's hospital will have served God and her fellow men as a sister of mercy for 50 years, 35 of which have been devoted to St. Joseph's hospital in various capacities of faithful service.

In the early years, Sister Gervaise had charge of the drug room and laboratory. She recalls with a smile of gratitude that it was the late Dr. Turner, whose name is still remembered with feelings of highest regard, who taught her to do blood counts. Later she opened the X-ray department in the hospital and for a number of years was in complete charge of its functions. In whatever capacity this selfless sister served she injected not only her skill and dependability but also her Christian personality.

Threat of Force

THE mystery that surrounded the Russian troops movements in Iran was clarified considerably Saturday when the Russians announced through the government-controlled newspaper Izvestia that the Soviets are demanding oil concessions in Iran.

Conceding even that Russia is justified in seeking at least an equitable share in the Iranian oil production, the tactics of the Soviet government in presenting its claim deserve the bitter denunciation of all who sincerely believe that international problems can be solved by peaceful negotiation.

If the threat of military force is Russia's answer to every world problem, there can be no sincere hope at all for sustained world peace.

The United Nations Organization was established specifically to settle international affairs over the conference tables. By its action in the Iranian situation, the Moscow government which helped to establish the UNO is already rejecting this means to world peace. As long as Russia clings to the dangerous theory that might makes right, the fear of war will increase. In fact, this theory makes war inevitable.

Russia has argued that the other nations of the world have no reason to be suspicious of Soviet intentions, but it is acts such as this military threat in Iran that has created suspicion of Russia.

Candidates at Forum

WHILE interest in community issues discussed at the Citizens Forum has languished in recent months, the meeting to be held at the Escanaba city hall on March 27 should draw a good attendance.
At that time, candidates for the Escanaba city council in the April 1 election will be presented to the audience and they will be given an opportunity to outline their platforms in 15-minute talks. This pre-election program is one of the most useful functions of the Citizens Forum for it gives the citizens a chance to better size up the men who aspire to represent them on the council.

Political advertisements, written by advertising men or ghost writers, do not always tell the whole story. But when the candidates get on their feet and make an oral presentation of their views on how the municipal government should be run, the voters are better able to judge their capabilities and characters.

Sharing at Home

AMERICANS are being asked to eat less food so that they may share the fruits of bounteous Nature with the starving and less fortunate people in Europe and other war-ravaged countries. Large amounts of food, of course, must and will be sent abroad to prevent as much starvation as possible. This is the humanitarian attitude that must be assumed.

Here at home there is another problem that calls for some sharing so that it can be alleviated as much as possible. This is the problem of insufficient housing for families of war veterans and others.

A recent survey shows that there is space in this country that could be shared with those without shelter. About 5,600,000 places remain vacant in American homes where couples could live, according to the announcement made by the foundation making the housing study. Of 10,000 home owners interviewed, only 11 per cent said this space could be put to use immediately, while 68 per cent answered it would take from four to six weeks before and tenants could move in. Twenty-one per cent said they had enough furniture to furnish space for a couple and a child, while 32 per cent said they could only handle a couple.

The finding of rooms for couples as yet offers no real problem in Escanaba, but there is a shortage of homes and three to five room apartments. An effort has been made by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce housing committee to induce home owners to remodel their properties to provide additional apartments. Some progress has been made, but the total increase of new accommodations has not been substantial, either through the inability to obtain building materials or the unwillingness of owners to share with others.

Misplaced Loyalty

FRED Rose, known as the only Communist ever elected to the Canadian House of Commons, has been arrested on charges of collaborating with the Moscow-directed espionage ring that sought information concerning new explosives and other war secrets in Canada.

The charges have not been proved, of course, but it is unlikely that the Canadian government would have taken the action unless it had good evidence. Also involved in the spy plot are four other Canadians, who were close to the wartime research program in that country.

No matter what arguments are presented by broad-minded liberals the record clearly shows that a Communist party member, be he a citizen of either Canada or the United States, gives priority to Moscow in his allegiance. When Stalin and Hitler signed their famous pact, the American Communists were charging Britain with imperialism and doing everything possible to hinder the American defense program. It was a different story when Hitler double-crossed Stalin and attacked Russia, however. Then, the American Communists advocated armed intervention and later a second front to save Russia before we were sufficiently prepared from a military standpoint to take that decisive step. The record shows it is always Moscow first with the Communists.

Outlook Brightens

THE settlement of many of the great strikes that have plagued the nation in the past six months has finally brought promise of the flood of postwar consumer goods for which the nation has been impatiently waiting.

While American rejoiced at the end of the war last August, promises were made for thousands of new cars, new radios, refrigerators, washing machines and a thousand other items for Christmas, 1945. Strikes washed out all those promises and months later the nation still is searching hopelessly for a few of those aids to modern living.

The market for these goods is tremendous. Virtually every American home needs several new electric appliances and they have the money to buy them. Labor strikes have been settled and finally the bright-hopes for postwar living show promise of realization.

VANDENBERG'S STATURE GROWS

Abilene (Texas) Reporter-News
Seldom indeed in American politics does the leopard change his spots. And when occasionally the phenomenon does occur, it almost invariably is accomplished with the unmistakable reluctance of the sailor who, watching the water reach the upper decks, has no choice but to follow the rats over the side.

That's why the story of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg is such an irresistibly fascinating one. It's truly incredible that this man, so recently an Old Guard, isolationist die-hard, should in a few short years have experienced the metamorphosis which renders him today one of the nation's most respected liberals and internationalists. The circumstances attending and facilitating the change were, of course, extraordinary. But then, Mr. Vandenberg was no run-of-the-mill conservative. He was unquestionably acknowledged by the Old Guard as one of its key figures, and as such was twice seriously considered for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Yet today he walks, earnestly and eagerly, with Senators Stassen and Ball in the van of the powerful GOP liberal faction. And once again searching eyes see in him Presidential potentialities.

Mr. Vandenberg, it seems to us, took on new political stature in his recent report to the Senate on the first United Nations Assembly, to which he as an American delegate contributed much. Identifying the future of UNO as inseparably interlocked with the progress of U. S.-Russian relations, at present grossly unsatisfactory, he called unequivocally for reciprocal candor—even bluntness—the sole means of securing a harmonious understanding between the two powers.

The senator definitely has something there. The Russian nationalist imperialism which has precipitated one international crisis after another these past months, however reprehensible and unwise it may be, is readily understandable. But what is not understandable is the painful hesitancy of the United States has repeatedly displayed when the most basic considerations of national interest and international security plainly dictated a firm stand against the course pursued by the USSR.

Josef Stalin is indeed a most inscrutable character; but one so invariably outspoken in his dealings may well respect the same quality in others. Perhaps the world is now more than ever before too small to support contemporaneously and convivially two radically divergent political and economic ideologies. Perhaps; but, then again, perhaps not.

Just how much Mr. Vandenberg's forthright statement influenced our state department there is no way of knowing; but at any rate Mr. Byrnes has made it abundantly clear that the days of kid-glove diplomacy have ended insofar as Russia is concerned.

HARD TO SPELL—HARD TO PRONOUNCE

For those of you who have been urging this modest column to devote more space to articles on vocabulary building, here is a list of useful and expressive words which not only are hard to spell but which also are almost always mispronounced. Better clip this column for your scrapbooks.

Cacophony, noun, "harsh, discordant, or disagreeable sound." From Greek kakos, "bad," plus phone, "sound." How to use it: The ear-splitting cacophony of the horns of automobiles in a traffic jam. Pronounce it: kuh-KOFF-oh-nee.

Innuendo, noun, "an insinuation; a disparaging hint or implication." How to use it: By innuendo, he indicated that the man was dishonest. Say: IN-yoo-EN-doe.

Beneficent, adjective, "doing good." How to use it: He was a man of many beneficent deeds. Say: bee-NEEF-i-sent.

Maleficance, noun, "misconduct; an unlawful act, especially by a public official."

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—A group of senators gathered at lunch one day this week for an earnest discussion of what course to follow when a bill of control atomic energy finally reaches the senate floor. The Senate Atomic Energy Committee had just approved, by a vote of 6 to 1, the so-called Vandenberg compromise giving a military liaison group the right to appeal to the President if the military felt that national security was threatened by some action proposed by the civilian commission which would have authority over atomic energy.

Among those at lunch were Senators Mead, Fulbright, Myers and McMahon, Democrats, (the latter being chairman of the Senate Atomic committee) and Senator Morse, Republican. They agreed on opposition to the Vandenberg compromise.

They felt that the military liaison committee would in effect dominate the control of atomic energy. Military men could raise the security issue on little or no pretext, and the man in the White House responsible for the nation's defense would find it difficult or impossible to turn them down.

—NOTE OF REALISM—

McMahon suggested that a hard fight on the floor of the Senate might defeat the Vandenberg proposal. His Democratic colleagues agreed on the need to carry the issue to the floor. But at this point, Morse injected a harsh note of realism.

"Let's be frank about this," he said. "We won't get 15 votes on the floor of the Senate unless the President throws his weight into the fight. He will have to say that he intends to veto the compromise bill."

"And let's be even more frank. Even if he does that, we would not be likely to get more than 30 votes. In other words, we're licked. But nevertheless we have to make the record."

Here is perhaps the most critical issue of our time, yet it is presented in such a way that the public is left confused and uncertain. And it is being presented in an atmosphere of threats and counterthreats of war.

Senator Vandenberg insists that his compromise does not give control to the military. He is disturbed by the original news stories on his proposal which said that the military liaison group would have a right to "review all steps taken by the civilian atomic commission. That implied the right of veto."

According to Vandenberg, the President's decision on all matters would be final. The Senator from Michigan feels that this gives less to the military than the revised McMahon bill, which would make the Secretaries of War, Navy and State ex-officio members of the civilian atomic commission.

It does seem to me, however, that the Vandenberg proposal puts an impossible burden on any President. Surely there should be ample protection for security with the Navy, War and State departments represented on the commission. The desire of military men to keep atomic energy as a weapon of international rivalry is so strong that one can be sure "security" would crop up at every turn.

—FEAR MILITARY CONTROL—

Just this week, a physicist had prepared a paper on the effect of slow neutrons on the human body to be read at a scientific meeting at Atlantic City. Because he had been connected with the Oak Ridge project. He was prevented by military censorship from reading the paper, although it was discovered later that a digest had already been printed in the program of the meeting. That is the kind of "security" issue which would come up to an already overburdened President.

It was not alone military control over atomic energy that the Senators discussed at their strategy lunch. They discussed what to several seemed to be the growing pattern of military authority in civilian posts.

Morse pointed to the implications of sending a general as ambassador to the Soviet Union at a time like the present. Others brought up the way in which military men are being appointed to regional and state offices having charge of surplus property disposal. This is taking place even though several senators have tried to stop such appointments in their own states.

"The army has nothing to fear from civilian control," Morse told an audience in Baltimore the other night, "but civilians have everything to fear from army control over any civilian matter."

His large audience broke into spontaneous applause. It was a sign of the concern—and the sense of futility—that so many people feel in the face of a shift of power that seems to be taking place.

From the French mal, "evil," plus faisant, "doing." How to use it: He was threatened with impeachment for malfeasance in office. Say: mal-FEE-z-nss.

Choleric, adjective, "hot tempered; irritable; excitable." From cholera, "bile." How to use it: Angriely, he arose and delivered a choleric speech against the proposal. Say: KOLL-er-ik, "koll" to rhyme with "doll."

WHEN SPRING ARRIVES—

This is the week that Spring arrives, officially. From Washington the Associated Press reports: "Spring arrives at 33 minutes after midnight, Eastern Standard Time, on the night March 20-21, 1946, the United States Naval Observatory announces."

Dunathan
ly observe the changing seasons and the varying moods of the weather.

For all that science may say, Spring does not arrive at a pre-stated hour or minute. To accept such a statement would automatically rule out the time-honored tradition of the first robin, the warmth of the March sun in an unseasonal warm spell, the smell of a new-plowed field, or the silky feel of a pussywillow between your fingers.

NO ARGUMENT—There can be no argument with U. S. Naval Observatory on its pronouncement of the "official" time for Spring to arrive. But most folks just don't accept it, that's all. They know that spring is a variable season, and that nature is a fickle creature likely to ignore the calendar.

Spring arrived early in the Upper Peninsula again this year. Perhaps a "false" spring, but spring weather nevertheless. That it may pass and April showers turn to hail and snow is nothing to cause alarm. The day of balmy warmth, of bright sun striking at the retreating snow is an actually. It is as real as the muddy street, and as factual as the tracks on a living room rug.

FIRST ROBINS—This reality of the season, as compared with the coldly official pronouncement of the Naval Observatory, is the difference between the intellectual and the emotional approach to living.

There is no place in the Naval Observatory, for instance, for those who become excited over the advent of the first robin. It is these enthusiasts who, taking pleasure in the robin's song, the splash of color on its breast, would forget to make an entry of the time, the place, the circumstance of their observation.

SPRING FEVER—No, there is little to commend the robin and pussywillow type of individual. It is he who is likely to forget everything except his emotional reaction to the season, and come down with a bad case of Spring fever.

In this voluptuous condition he is of little practical use to anyone. The disease is most common among children and others who are untrained to the rigors of practicality. It is in this condition that school children forget books, lessons, teachers, desks and sit idly gazing at the greening tips of elm trees beyond the window.

Housewives find one reason or another why they would sweep porches or air pillows with occasional lapses in daydreaming of next summer's flower beds.

Men do their work with half a mind on the job, the other half newly opened to the sensory impressions of life beyond their occupation. Swing calls and bank-ers think of the joys of being foot-loose hoboes, and hoboes think of

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

Washington — The proposal of Princeton and Vassar students to form organizations of "Veterans of Future Wars" and "Gold Star Mothers of Future Veterans" today aroused the ire of a veteran's organization official. J. D. Chittende, director of the national service bureau of the Veteran of Foreign Wars, said the students "need a good injection of Americanism."

Members from Escanaba of the Augustana choir of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., are: Miss Melba Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Edward Anderson, 703 South 16th street; Arthur Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Olson, 1322 Eighth Avenue south, and Vincent Bergman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bergman, 1016 Tenth avenue south.

Escanaba's bathing beach and yacht basin project was back on the "must go" list yesterday after a flood of telegrams and long distance telephone calls were sent to Washington, Lansing and Iron Mountain.

Publicity for the Escanaba Smelt Jamoree has been broadcast from St. Louis and Detroit radio stations and word has been received that the Prairie Farmer Station WLS will tell about the Escanaba festival this morning at 7:30 o'clock.

20 Years Ago—1926

Plymouth, Vt.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president died at 10:01 o'clock tonight. The aged parent of the nation's chief executive succumbed to a heart attack within two weeks of his 81st birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Harder and daughters, Evelyn and Louise, of Wells, left Thursday evening for Chicago to spend the week-end.

Miami, Fla. Gar Wood of Detroit, today won permanent possession of the $10,000 Fisher-Allison gold trophy when he piloted the Baby Gar VI to victory in the second heat of the 50-mile race in the sixth annual Bay Biscayne regatta.

Gladstone—Mrs. William Marble and Mrs. Fred Mingay will entertain at bridge this afternoon at a benefit party for the East End Parent Teachers' association piano fund. The party will be held at the Marble home.

THE OPPORTUNITY—For millions of persons Spring is more than a date on the calendar or sprig of artificial flowers in a shop window.

These millions are the farmers, the woods workers, the fishermen and others whose livelihood is gained in the out-of-doors. If you told them that perhaps the reason they are farmers, woodsmen, fishermen is because they love the out-of-doors with its fascinating play of seasons and of weather, they would probably laugh at you.

They would not deny, however, that they would detest an indoor job, a slave to a machine or a desk, who in springtime gases out on the world as a prisoner looks from his cell. Nor would they deny that much of the pleasure in their work comes from the feel of the warm sun on their back, the sight of trees and fields placid under the blue sky, and the fresh smell of new wood, fresh-turned earth, and rain-washed air.

There is an opportunity for enjoyment which they would be loath to exchange for a view from a window.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—A group of atomic scientists were being quizzed by Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California at a private dinner. Leading scientist present was Dr. Leo Szilard, who discovered one method of creating the atom bomb.

The Senate Atomic Committee had just voted to set up a military board with broad powers over the scientists, and Senator O'Mahoney was anxious to get Dr. Szilard's ideas on army control.

Szilard told several stories of how the army, because it lacked scientific knowledge, hampered the scientists during the war. At one time, Dr. Szilard said, he came into his office and found that the book-cases had been turned around to face the wall. He asked the army officer in charge why they had been moved and got this reply:

"There was a vial of Uranium in your book-case and orders are that nothing shall be revealed or exposed. So we turned the book-cases to the wall."

Dr. Szilard explained that many scientists were so apprehensive of the new army control and the possibility, in talking to another scientist, of accidentally revealing something, that they wanted to get out of atomic science altogether.

"That would be a tragic mistake," advised Senator O'Mahoney. "You must not do that. Atomic experimentation must continue."

Dr. Szilard told about some of the amazing new fields which the atom had opened up, especially in medicine. For instance, it is now possible to put an atom in carbon, feed it into the human body, and follow it through the body. Thus, for the first time in history, the exact flow of matter through the body can be traced.

"But," remarked the noted scientist, "according to the bill just adopted by the senate committee, all this will be under an army board. And, from my previous experiences with the army, such experiments will be very difficult in the future."

—CONGRESSIONAL TEMPER—

Representatives Earl Michener of Michigan and Everett Dirksen of Illinois, both Republicans, are usually mild-mannered men. Both have served on the Joint Committee for the reorganization of Congress, which proposed the plan of pensions for congressmen. This is a ticklish question and tempers were high during the vote which finally defeated it.

When the House vote came up, Michigan's Michener voted in favor of the pension plan. Beside him, he heard Illinois' able Dirksen vote "present," which means neither aye nor nay.

"Everett," whispered Michener, "you haven't got any guts."

Dirksen saw red. Calling Michener an unpublishable name, he replied:

"Why, I've at least got the guts to vote the way I see things instead of ducking back and forth and bobbing up only when it's safe to make my position known. You always know where I stand on an issue just as soon as I do—but it's an awful tough job to figure out your position."

Michener was now fighting mad. He accused Dirksen of insulting him and insisted that Dirksen liked to duck issues. Several other members tried to calm them. Finally Dirksen, in a voice loud enough to be heard some distance across the House floor, said:

"All right, Earl, there's no sense in fighting in here. You come on outside with me to settle this, and I'll give you the thrashing you're asking for."

Dirksen, a man of heavyweight proportions, started up from his seat. But other members pulled him down, also held Michener down. The two glared at each other, but finally decided that discretion was the better part of valor.

—CAPITAL CRAFT—

Treasury officials are worry over dwindling savings bonds sales. Savings stamps purchased in January and February of this year were about 10 per cent of the volume for January and February of last year, which means that the schools have let down sharply. Meanwhile, the House Appropriations committee seems to want to cut the Treasury's Savings Bond Staff to the bone and halfway through the bone . . . Ernie Adamson, letter-writing counsel for the House un-American Activities committee who doesn't like the idea of democracy, has been instructed by the committee that no more letters go out in the name of the committee unless approved by the chairman. This means Ernie was let down lightly . . . Jimmy Roosevelt has finally told California congressmen he will not run for the Senate. He's also turned thumbs down on a proposal to run for a seat in the House of Representatives.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Secretary of the Treasury Vinson showed Foreign delegates to the Monetary conference what baseball is like, by arranging for the Brooklyn Dodgers to play an unscheduled exhibition game in Savannah, Ga. . . . Vinson is the capital's most ardent baseball fan . . . The War Department summoned Jimmy Doolittle back to Washington from terminal leave to keep him away from a Civilian Educational and Church Group conference on Control of Atomic Energy. The astute Jimmy, however, checked on what the brass hats were up to, and then high-balled back to Florida to attend the atomic meeting anyhow. He has had army run-arounds before . . . one of the best current books on atomic control is, "One World—Or None," put out by McGraw-Hill, which explains atomic energy in words of one syllable. . . . President Truman may attend the "Inner Circle" dinner March 30, entitled the "Shamrock and the Sickle," given by New York political writers to rib the left-wing Tammany Hall Political Alliance.

NEED PERMITS TO BURN BRUSH

Spring Fire Season At Hand; Towerman On Occasional Duty

Persons who wish to burn brush, grass, rubbish, etc., must first obtain a permit from the conservation department, John Angulim, district conservation supervisor at the headquarters office in Escanaba said yesterday.

Although conditions are not yet hazardous, precautions must be taken to avoid the spread of fires, Angulim reported.

First fire tower to be manned in this area was that at Flat Rock, where Fire Warden Bob Shiner was on temporary duty Sunday. A few minor grass fires have been reported in Delta county.

Permits to burn must be obtained at any time when the ground is not covered with snow. The legal description of the property must be given, and the permits may be obtained from the district conservation office in Escanaba, at the equipment stations at Gwinn and Marquette, and from local conservation officers, fire wardens and towermen.

A burning permit is issued only for a maximum of four days, and may be revoked at any time at the discretion of the district headquarters.

The first grass fire of the season occurred last week in Escanaba, and yesterday's hot sun and drying wind is expected to increase the danger of fires.

Must Remove Fish Shanties From Ice

Scores of fish shanties still dot the Bay of Little Bay de Noc, although the ice is weak, and their owners are reminded by the conservation department that they cannot abandon their shanties without risking arrest.

Strict enforcement of a law which requires owners to remove shanties from lakes or streams has been ordered by H. R. Sayre, chief of the conservation department's field administration division.

Owners have 30 day after ice melts in which to haul their shanties onto dry land, failing which the department will do the job and assess costs against owners.

Also, owners who fail to remove shanties before the deadline face fines and jail terms.

Increased Power, Improved Flight New B-50 Fortress

Wright Field, Ohio—A more powerful Boeing Superfortress, a counterpart of the famous B-29 but having increased power and improved flight performance, has been announced by officials of the Army Air Technical Service Command. An experimental model has passed flight tests here, and the production version is now being built by Boeing Aircraft at Seattle. It will be known as the B-50, Superfortress, or the XB-44.

In addition to the increase in horsepower over the B-29, a new-type nacelle has been designed for the XB-44 which enables a change of engine units to be made by six men in a half hour. It takes six men eight hours to do the same job in the war-time B-29. The new nacelle contains the engine, supercharger, induction system, oil system and propeller controls.

The new superfortress is powered by four R-4360 Pratt and Whitney engines, with a total of 12,000 horsepower. The increase in horsepower over the B-29 comes from the change in the engine installation. The large increase in the available power provides a marked improvement in take-off, rate of climb and speed, Army officials state. A four-bladed Curtiss Electric propeller, which has the reversible pitch feature for braking, replaces the previous propeller.

MECHANICAL MIXING Helps You Get Best Results From Your Grain!

(Shovel Mix)

(Machine Mix)

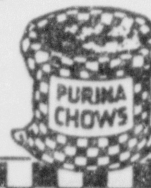

TWO things are necessary to cash in on the full feeding value of your grain. First, select the proper supplement for the kind of stock you intend to feed. Second, mix the supplement so thoroughly with the grain that every quart of mixed ration is in the same balanced form as every other quart. This is absolutely essential when correct feeding is so vital to the cause of capacity food production today.

Shovel mixing is tedious and cannot possibly provide the necessary uniformity. But accurate mechanical mixing—such as is available to you through our NEW Approved Purina Custom Mixing Service—makes the mixture much more uniform and dependable.

Our Formulas are thoroughly tested and proved for turning your grain into balanced feeds for poultry, hogs, cows and steers. Our grinding and mixing machinery is operated by trained men. Bring in your grain for proper balancing to help step it up to capacity feeding value.

Camp Fire Girls
Honored By Clubs
At Meetings Here

The Escanaba Rotary and Kiwanis clubs yesterday noon honored the Camp Fire Girls in the celebration of the organization's 24th anniversary of its founding. Girls representing the Bluebirds, Campfire Girls and Horizon Club divisions, and their leaders, presented information to the service clubs concerning the activities and aims of the oldest national organization for girls in America.

Miss Margaret Wade, former chairman of the guardian's association, and active for several years in the Camp Fire Girls organization, introduced the program at the Rotary club meeting.

Participating in the program were Mrs. Clarence Zerb, guardian of the Merry Bluebirds at the Barr school; Miss Mary Davis Costley, outdoor sponsor at St. Joseph's unit of the Camp Fire Girls, and counselor at Camp Winnakee; and Miss Thelma Ramsey, assistant guardian.

Miss Mary Groos, of the Junior high school Chickagami group; Helen St. Martin, of the W. O. W. Horizon group; Mrs. Alphonsus Sedenburgh, of the St. Joseph's school group; and Ellen Johnson of the Webster school Camp Fire Girls.

Blue Birds Janet Costley, Dawn Dickson, Joan Johnson, Ann Krantz and Barbara Peterson presented songs and verses explaining the Bluebird program. They were directed by Mrs. Zerb, who accompanied at the piano.

Miss Dorothy Hilly, Junior high school teacher and Camp Fire Girls leader, presided at the program presented at the Kiwanis club. She stated that the Camp Fire program is built around the needs of the girl, and in addition in providing fun seeks to develop the abilities of the child. Camp Fire Girls, she said, learn to earn their own money, and participate in community affairs.

Miss Hilly introduced Mrs. Carl Nelson, Mrs. Nels Jensen, Miss Naomi Vinette and Miss Helen Johnson as guardians of Camp Fire Girls. The past activities of the Bluebirds, Camp Fire and Horizon Club were reviewed by Charlotte Knutson, Connie Gallagher and Patricia Frasher, members of the groups.

In closing, Miss Hilly invited the Kiwanians to cooperate with the Camp Fire Girls by providing worthwhile activities for the members and by encouraging new leadership for additional groups.

The bride wore a pastel green wool dressmaker suit with black accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elaine Holland, who wore a grey wool suit with black accessories, and a corsage of roses.

Harvey Derouin, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holland chose a black dress with matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of peach gladioli. Mrs. Derouin wore a print dress with harmonizing accessories, and her flowers were pink gladioli.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the Holland home, where a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom formed the centerpiece of the table. Mr. and Mrs. Derouin are making their home in Schaffer for the present. The bridegroom was recently discharged after four years service in the army.

Cotton Is More Expensive Than Silk In China

BY JOHN GROVER
AP Newsfeatures
Kunming, China — They still make silk in the ancient way, slowly and carefully and beautifully, but silk is worth less than utilitarian cotton in China.

Sturdy cotton coolie cloth sells for almost double the price of silk. Cotton is sold by the foot, to peasants and working folk whose hands in repose hang curled to the roundness of hoe handles or ricksha shafts.

It is bought in short pieces, not for new garments, but for patches. Some outfits are little but a collection of careful patches in various colors, ranging from the aged white of skimmed milk to the brand new denim blue of the latest mending, the whole held together by patient, fine stitching.

But despite eight years of war and devastation, the silk crafts of China somehow survive, to recreate a beauty that was old two thousand years ago.

When the mulberry leaves come out, and the seed-pearl eggs of the silk moth hatch, old women wise in the ancient craft and their grand-daughters new to it, still minister to the insatiable hunger of the tiny worms. In the rearing sheds, in the feeding trays, their myriad munching mandibles are faintly audible as they attack the mulberry leaves.

Out of this emerald fodder, worms spin their own mummy-cases, the yards and yards of raw silk fibers that become their cocoons. China has had wars before, some of them fought over control of this same silk industry, but the cult of the silkworm has never died out.

The price of silk, from sheerest crepe de chimes to stiff satins, intricate brocades and heavy tafetas, is unbelievably low in a land where the man in the street wants a foot of cotton for patches more than a lustrous gown for ceremonial occasions.

A tour of the markets in Kunming reveals that prices range from about $1.35 to $4.50 a yard in U. S. money depending on weight and quality.

Hot water bottles, ice packs, and syringes should be dried thoroughly away from heat, and when not in use should be stored in a box or heavy paper.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD

AGAINST WHOOPING COUGH

★ World-wide in its distribution, whooping cough is endemic in large cities, becoming epidemic on a large scale every two to four years. The seriousness of pertussis, especially in young children, is evidenced by the mortality rate—about 26 percent in infants less than one year old.

Children should be vaccinated during the first year of life. Do not wait for an epidemic. It takes several weeks after vaccination for the body to produce antibodies. Ask your physician now about protection from whooping cough for your baby.

We carry fresh stocks of vaccine under refrigeration at all times.

ON THE GLOOMY SIDE

There are not nearly enough fats in the country to make all the soaps, soap powders, and soap flakes you want. So short is the supply, the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Besides, the supplies of soaps many of you housewives have had in reserve are running low — and the demand for soaps is increasing.

ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

Most of you housewives have continued to turn in fats. You've helped keep our industrial fat supply large enough to meet minimum needs.

But it's a close race. Any letdown on your part can mean less soap for everybody.

DAVISONSON GET PRISON TERMS

Inwood Men Sentenced
By Judge Runnels
At Newberry

Court officials said that Ralph had a previous crime record, had been sentenced for larceny at Flint and had served a year at Jackson prison on a forgery charge.

WARNS OF TAX
ON INTANGIBLES

State Revenue Dept.
Man To Be Here
Friday

G. A. Peterson, representing the Michigan Department of Revenue, will be at the local court house next Thursday afternoon for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their intangibles tax returns due not later than March 31.

Intangible personal property subject to tax includes all mortgages, bank accounts, cash, postal savings accounts, accounts and notes receivable, corporate stocks, corporate bonds and similar types of property. However, all United States bonds, including war bonds, are exempt from the tax, and the tax on deposits in Michigan banks and building and loan associations, as well as stocks in Michigan banks, will be paid to the department of revenue directly by these institutions.

The department has issued a warning to all owners of property, such as is outlined above, to file the necessary returns on or before the end of the month. The revenue department is constantly engaged in checking stockholders' lists, mortgage records, income tax returns and other data for the purpose of discovering evasions of the intangible tax act. Failure to file a return when a tax is due subjects the taxpayer to severe penalties.

In addition to assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their returns, Mr. Peterson will also be glad to advise any person concerning the liability, if any, under the intangibles tax act.

Those desiring this advice or assistance are requested to bring with them full information of their holdings, including the face or par value, and income received from it during the year just passed and a copy of their 1944 return filed with the department.

STEEL OUTPUT
AT OLD LEVEL

Production Attains Its
Pre-Strike Volume;
Pig Iron Short

Cleveland, (AP)—Steel production has reached the approximate level prevailing before the steel strike and consuming industries are assured of a larger supply for the remainder of the year, the magazine Steel reported today.

"Most steel plants now are in operation and hindrances developing in getting under way after the idle period are being eliminated rapidly, production gaining momentum each week," the trade publication declared.

"Were it not for shortage of pig iron, steel output would be at a higher level. While leaving much to be desired, as many consuming plants are down all over the country, the overall gain in consumer operations is clearly reflected in increasing pressure for steel. At no time in months has demand appeared more urgent and in spite of acceleration in steel production supply continues tight."

Steel reported some confusion over application of the recent price increases granted by the Office of Price Administration and said "some changes are likely to be made to fit conditions better. Expectation is that an increase in pig iron prices will be made soon, with indications that it will be 75 cents per ton, though nothing official has been announced."

Boy Pickets Movie
To Protest Price

New York, (AP)—Bernard L. Meyer, 18, decided that movie prices were too high, so he made a picket sign and started parading back and forth in front of a Brooklyn theatre. Arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, Bernard was brought into Adolescents' Court.

Bernard told the magistrate that movie admissions had jumped from 30 to 75 cents and thought the theater owner ought to be brought into court.

"I think you're a little too young to solve the problems of the world," the magistrate ruled, and he sent the boy home with a stern lecture.

"You can't start a one-man campaign just because you dislike something or some place of business."

Eskymos Draw Ironwood In Class B Championship Tournament

LOCALS PLAY ON THURSDAY

Rock Little Giants And Greenland Paired In Class D

The Eskymos basketball team is paired with the Strong Ironwood quintet in the opening round of the U. P. Class B championship tournament at 9 o'clock Thursday night at Ironwood, as the result of drawings conducted on Monday morning at the Ironwood high school. Soo Blue Devils will meet Lake Linden Friday night at 9 o'clock in the other Class B semi-final game.

Rock Little Giants, Delta county's other entrant in the U. P. championships, picked Greenland for its first round match and will play Friday night at 6 o'clock. Cedarville and Eben, other Class D contenders, will meet Thursday night at 6 o'clock.

Other tournament pairings follow: Class C—L'Anse vs. Newberry, Thursday, 7:30 o'clock; Norway vs. Crystal Falls, Friday, 7:30 o'clock. Class E—Powers vs. Alpha, Thursday, 4:30 o'clock; Grand Marais vs. Champion, Friday, 4:30 o'clock.

The finals Saturday night will be played as follows: Class E, 6:00 p. m.; Class D, 7:15 p. m.; Class C, 8:30 p. m.; Class B, 9:45 p. m.

The first round pairings resulted in anything but a good break for the Eskymos as the Ironwood team, playing on its home court, is generally regarded as the toughest opposition the Escanaba team could possibly have drawn in the opening round. The Escanaba players were undismayed, however, as they reasoned that if the break is tough for them it probably is equally tough for the Ironwood Red Devils, who presumably would also have preferred to draw either Sault Ste. Marie or Lake Linden, preferably the latter, in the opening round.

Anyway, since this is the tournament to settle the upper peninsula Class B championship the Eskymos probably would have been forced to meet Ironwood anyway to win the U. P. title. Coach Rouman and his lads have decided that it may as well be the first round as the second. The Ironwood—Escanaba game shapes up as a toss-up with no basis at all to make a reasonable comparison between the teams. They have not met during the regular season and Marquette is the only team met by both Ironwood and Escanaba during the regular season. Both teams defeated Marquette decisively.

On the other hand, the Soo Blue Devils will be heavily favored to eliminate Lake Linden, a Class C team that elected to move into the higher classification for tournament play. Basketball fans who may be merely guessing have hinted that Lake Linden moved into Class B to avoid competing with L'Anse, U. P. Class C champions, which is defending its title at Ironwood after an undefeated season.

Sun-Fun Is Florida Sports Background

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
Tampa, Fla., March 17—(AP)—This is Florida (gulf coast) today: Trucks piled high with loose oranges spilled vitamins casually along the highways as they swing around curves (but orange juice at most spots is a dime a glass the same as up north). Trailer camps in groves so jam-packed that a fellow is liable to find himself washing his neighbor's face. The same traveling homes, some as luxurious as swank hotels, lurching along the roads and giving other motorists the jitters. The open range, dating back to a Spanish grant, a menace to unwary highway travelers, and the roadsides dotted with dead cattle and dogs which didn't move fast enough.

The sporting instinct apparent everywhere with age no barrier. The younger generations getting their kick out of the numerous fight cards (its against the law, too) and dog racing and baseball and the older, quite content with their shuffleboard and checkers. Natives anointing for a spell of rainy weather, as if they had something to do with it. Everything seeming to be named "Terrace", such as Tampa Terrace, Lakeland Terrace, Terrace Gardens, etc., when the nearest thing you can find to a terrace is a curbstone. The landscape is flatter than a codfish cake.

Major league baseball clubs comfortably quartered, with the Red Sox so close to their park in Sarasota that a player practically can step out of his hotel window and steal home. Waterfront Park at St. Petersburg where a healthy home run to left field might land in the bay and the spectators can watch a ball game, airplane landings and outboard motor maneuvers at the same time. Tampa the thriving metropolis of the area, boasting of the most and finest cigars and a new shipyard contract which will keep the builders busy for some time to come.

The cluster of fine towns within a 50-mile radius—Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Bradenton, Lakeland, Clearwater. No ostentation, just good substantial folks enjoying life. The man you meet might be a retired mailman or railroad engineer or a vacationing banker. Driving is a ticklish proposition, though, with motorists from every state in the Union observing their own private traffic rules. Bridges along the highways lined with men, women and children all with fish lines dropped over the side, hoping for the best but not seeming to care particularly whether they get a bite or not.

EVERS INJURIES BLOW TO TIGES

Rookie Centerfielder Breaks Ankle; Was Hitting Over .400

BY JACK HAND
Lakeland, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Loss of rookie centerfielder Walter (Hoot) Evers for a three-month period because of a broken ankle comes as a body blow to Detroit's hopes of repeating in the American league but Manager Steve O'Neill is taking it all in stride. Nobody knew better than O'Neill how valuable Evers can be to the Detroit ball club. The youngster from Collinsville, Ill., had been leading the Tigers in spring training with a brilliant .400 plus average.

Evers was one of O'Neill's four "regular" outfielders and chances are he would have opened the season at either center or right field. Barney McCosky was expected to hold down the job in center but he pulled a side muscle and has been sidelined while Evers came to the front. Dick Wakefield, of course, is the left fielder and Pat Mullin had the inside track on the other post.

At one stage or another of the spring season each of the four has been on the jockey list for an extended period. McCosky still is out and so is second baseman Eddie Mayo, the sparkplug of last year's champions.

The club was in the process of losing its seventh straight spring game St. Patrick's Day when Evers' spikes caught in second base and he went down for the count.

Long after Managers O'Neill of Detroit and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland helped carry him to the clubhouse the official report came from the hospital—one broken left ankle and one broken right thumb. Evers will be out for from 10 to 12 weeks and perhaps longer, a tough pill for an ex-GI who finally had a chance to make the big time.

As matters stand O'Neill probably will open with Wakefield in left, McCosky in center and Mullin in right. Hank Greenberg, a little slow in hitting his batting stride, will be at first, Eddie Lake at shortstop and either Pinky Higgins or Jimmy Outlaw at third. Birdie Tebbets, Paul Richards and Bob Swift probably will divide the catching.

Behind his big three of Hal Newhouse, Paul (Dizzy) Trout and Virgil Trucks, O'Neill has Stubby Overmire and Al Benton as certain starters. He may find others among Freddy Hutchinson, Hal White and Les Mueller, but he isn't sure.

Swift Swedes Get Into Tax Troubles

Stockholm, March 18 (AP)—Gundar Haegg and Arne Andersson, Sweden's two great millers who yesterday were declared professionals and barred for life from amateur competition, may have further trouble—this time with the Swedish income tax collectors. A tax expert told the Dagens Nyheter today it is possible the state will ask Haegg and Andersson, and also the seven other athletes who were punished to a lesser extent, just how much they earned as amateurs.

the courteous reception. Ice cream at 25 cents a pint, and good. Much favorable comment on the signing of Ray Wolf to coach the Florida football team. The "gators" really want to get back as a grid power. Pelicans, storks, gulls and an infinite variety of other birds gazing with mild interest from the railings as you cross bridges and causeways. Old plantations, wild animal farms and sunken gardens to lure the tourists. And, just to get a little sport in the column, Ted Williams letting a ground ball go between his legs in left field to let in two Yankee runs. And no cracks, please, about Ted being in midseason form already.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Accurate figures are not yet available, but it is likely that the attendance at district basketball tournament games in the upper peninsula last week established a new all-time record. Virtually every tournament center reported heavy patronage. The attendance peak was reached in the Friday semi-final games, but the finals sessions also were heavily supported by the basketball public.

Rapid River, with 13 entries, will probably pay off 100 percent of expenses to its competing teams. This would indicate that just about all of the tournament centers would do likewise since none had any greater financial problem than the Rapid River center.

The policy of class basketball championships is pretty well rooted in the upper peninsula, but there still is a substantial segment of the basketball public that would like to see the championship program established on a wide-open basis. This can be done with less disparity in basketball than any other team sport. In fact, it is being done in other states and it is surprising how well the smaller schools hold their own in such competition. There will be four class champions in the upper peninsula at the end of play next Saturday night, but there will be no upper peninsula champions, no school team that can truthfully say

YANK B'S LOSE TO DETROIT, 8-5

Bradenton, Fla., March 18. (AP)—After seven straight defeats, the Detroit Tigers won a Grapefruit League contest today by blasting the New York Yankees "B" squad, 8-5, with a 12-hit attack.

Dick Wakefield tripled with the bases loaded for Detroit's first three runs in the fifth, breaking a scoreless tie. Wakefield tallied on Roy Cullenbine's fly with the fourth and last run of Detroit's biggest inning this year. The Bengals boosted their lead to 7-0 in the sixth, Doc Cramer's three-bagger being the big blow.

Tommy Bridges shackled the Yankees with one single in the first four stanzas to become the winning pitcher.

Dizzy Trout finished for Detroit and yielded seven hits and 5 runs. Cramer paced Detroit's attack with three hits and matched Wakefield's total of a trio of runs batted in. Besides, the veteran made two glittering one-handed catches in center field.

Score by innings: Detroit..... 000 430 100—8 12 1 New York..... 000 002 201—5 8 0 Bridges, Trout (5) and Richards; Dubiel, Holcomb (6) and Sears, Hemsley.

Pennsylvania Joins Boxing Association; Only 3 States Left

Philadelphia, March 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania has joined the National Boxing Association, Athletic Commission Chairman Leon Rains said today, in a move designed to bring about "unified" control throughout the country.

The keystone state's entry leaves New York, Massachusetts and Maryland the only major states not actively affiliated with the NBA.

Rains said the step was being taken in conjunction with the NBA's "all-out effort to coordinate the best interests of the sport in the nation."

Pennsylvania has long confined its relations with other athletic commissions to individual working agreements and to cooperating in some instances with suspensions. In many cases it has not recognized NBA titleholders.

It has established a recognized claim as the peninsula's best. It is possible to preserve the present class championship setup in the peninsula and still establish a true upper peninsula championship by carrying the tournament program just a step further. This could be accomplished by pairing the class champions against each other. In such a program, the logical pairings would be to match the Class B champions against the Class D titleholder and the Class C winner against the Class E champs in the opening round, with the two winners to meet for the peninsula championship.

Is this overemphasizing tournament play in the upper peninsula? Not unless we concede that basketball tournament play is already overemphasized in the lower peninsula, which requires three weeks of tournament competition to pick class champions as against two weeks in the competition north of the straits. Would this proposed tournament setup be unfair to the smaller schools? Not at all, since they would first run through preliminary rounds in their own class and establish their own class champions before taking a shot at the larger schools in which the stake would be an honor far greater than that which they gain under the present setup.

Would the larger schools, the Class B and Class C teams, dominate the peninsula championship under this program? Probably so, but the D and E schools undoubtedly would sneak in there for a winner occasionally, at least often enough to sustain their interest in the program. They would have everything to gain and nothing to lose in this proposed tournament extension. As the program now stands, the schools, large and small alike, have no chance for glory beyond their class championships.

Hunting And Fishing

WEATHER AND THE FISHERMAN
The beginning fishermen, women especially, do not realize that bright sunlight is one of the greatest handicaps to success. It is hard for the expert to go out and catch fish in the bright sunlight and these next three articles may show you how we old-timers overcome that hazard.

Fish are wary on bright days for they can see every movement of arm or rod. Another factor is the fact that fish lie much farther below the surface on bright days. Almost half of our days are sunny during the months of May to October, our fishing season.

Our rainy days run about 10 days in each of those months and these too offer a handicap of light showers to heavy rains. We try and offset that handicap by fishing during the cloudy weather before and after the rains.

About half of our days in each month are cloudy days in Wisconsin and Michigan and such days are ideal for fishing. While some of the cloudy days mean that the sun shines brightly, now and then through the lighter clouds we overcome that effect under certain conditions.

When we have a "gentle breeze" (10 or 12 miles an hour) the waves will run too high for timid folk to venture on a large lake. This needn't stop you from fishing though, if you have access to a small lake or large pond. With this wind force you will often get your best fishing for the waves will not "pile up" in small lakes and the fish hit hard for they feed then on surface food blown by the breeze.

Often on sunny days there is a "light breeze" (about five miles an hour) which affects the sun's rays through the light clouds. The waves are then only a foot high or less, and this breaks up the sun's rays in the water. The fish lie higher and often feed on the surface, in the weed beds and on the reefs.

TRIAL PERIOD NEARING CLOSE

BY JACK HAND

Tampa, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Baseball's 30-day trial period for ex-GIs is running out and the waiver lists will be eye-high with talent within 10 days.

That doesn't mean that the returning servicemen are going to be brushed out of the way. It does mean, however, that a national defense list player soon can be optioned to the minor leagues at the same pay provided he can be waived out of the majors at the standard $7,500 price.

The rule from Commissioner A. B. Chandler's office reads in part, "the contract of a reinstated national defense player shall not be assigned outright or optionally to a club of lower classification until the player has been retained by the reinstating club 30 days of a training season or 15 days of a playing season."

Take the Brooklyn Dodgers, just for example. President Branch Rickey invited most of the servicemen from the Dodgers and farm club lists to a special continuing school at Sanford, Fla., starting Feb. 1. Most of the younger athletes responded. Waivers who are not considered "ready" by the Brooklyn or the farm club that held their contracts.

With so much talk emanating from the Sanford camp about brilliant Brooklyn youngsters, you can be sure that the other moguls will scan the Dodgers waiver lists very carefully in hopes of picking up something hot at a nominal $7,500 ticket.

Although the waiver list soon will be loaded with talent, experienced baseball men expect that most player changes will be made via the trade route.

In addition to Brooklyn, the New York Giants already have had their 30-day trial; likewise the New York Yankees Panama squad that went south the same day the Giants reported, Feb. 10, and the Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates early Feb. 14 units. Detroit already has asked waivers on 18 men, effective March 20.

CHICAGO BUTTER—(USDA)—The butter market was firm and unchanged today at OPA ceiling prices.

CHICAGO EGGS—(USDA)—Egg prices today to firm, large No. 1 and No. 2 extras, 36 to 37.4; No. 3 and No. 4 extras, 35 to 36; medium extras, 32 to 33; standard, 33 to 34; current receipts, 32 to 33; dirties, 32 to 32 1/2; checks, 31 1/2 to 31 3/4.

CHICAGO POTATOES—(USDA)—Potatoes, arrivals 316, on track 233, total U.S. shipments, Friday, 1,192, Saturday, 1,190. Old stocks: Supplies moderate, for western stocks demand moderate; for local stocks demand moderate, slightly stronger for best quality; for Idaho russet Burbanks, U. S. No. 1, $3.60; Colorado Red McClure's, U. S. No. 1, $3.55 to $3.70; Nebraska and Wyoming Bliss triumphs, U. S. No. 1, $3.50; Minnesota and North Dakota cobblers, commercial, $2.10; Florida 50-lb. sacks Bliss triumphs, U. S. No. 1, $2.10 to $2.35.

CHICAGO GRAIN—(USDA)—Although uncertain about what restrictions might be imposed on the export of grain, futures traders found sufficient confidence in cotton, securities and Winnipeg to keep the prices up substantially here today.

Oats were carried along on a good demand which held firm. May delivery back to the 63-cent ceiling. Wheat and corn held at ceilings of $1.84 1/2 and $2.11 1/2; oats finished 5-8 to 1-4 cents higher than Saturday's close, May 83; rye unchanged to 3-8 up, May $2.19 3/8 to $2.19 5/8; barley unchanged to 1/2 cent advanced, May $1.26 1/2 ceiling.

Along with speculation on the provisions which might be contained in the new trade bill, the wheat and corn market was buoyed up by the fact that ceiling prices on wheat and corn might be boosted again, at least temporarily, in an effort to attract more of the grain to the market.

BUYING TIMID: PRICES BETTER.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York, March 18 (AP)—Stocks, on average, made further headway over the recent trail in today's market, although exceptions were plentiful and buying generally timid.

Some of the most international tension had eased was said to have inspired bidding. Others nibbled at favorites on the theory the recent decline could be a little more than a dealings tapered after a fairly active start and top gains running to 2 or 3 points. The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 6 of point at 78. Only 902 issues registered, one of the smallest number for a full session since December with 914 issues, 569 rose, 176 fell and 157 were unchanged.

On the rising end were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, R-K-O. Paramount Pictures, Warner Bros., Barnsdall, Pure Oil, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Pacific American Smelting, Western Union "A", International Nickel, Owens-Illinois and J. I. Case.

BONDS RISE SLOWLY

New York, March 18 (AP)—Light demand for rail bonds kept a little more rising bond market today. Despite the timid buying, prices responded with 6 of time, a little more than 2 points. Carriers in reorganization drew the bulk of support.

International and domestic business news, that of the war here and there in the final hour although scattered revivals appeared near the close. The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 6 of point at 78. Only 902 issues registered, one of the smallest number for a full session since December with 914 issues, 569 rose, 176 fell and 157 were unchanged.

Chilean bonds, quoted at around the high end of the market, drew market hopes of a resumption of debt serving, ran into a little profit taking and receded fractionally. Chilean Municipal bonds, 7 to 10 years, rose 1/2 to 2 1/2 in lively trade. Selected Brazilian and Argentine issues also found back-bid.

Turnover in U. S. governments both in the stock market and over-the-counter trade was small.

Domestic corporate bonds marked up included Baltimore & Ohio stamped "F's" of '96 at 95 3/8, St. Paul converted, 100 at 92 1/2, Pacific 4 1/2's of '32 "A's" at 89 and refunding "A's" at 83 1/2, Lackawanna 4's at 71, Missouri Pacific 6's of '65 "A's" at 96, New Haven 4 1/2's of '37 at 92 1/2, Erie 4's at 82 1/2, 6 1/2's of '65 "A's" East Coast 5's of '74 at 85.

TRADING TRENDS

New York, March 18 (AP)—Stocks: Generally higher; selected issues advance. Bonds: Selected rails improve. Cotton: Steady; mill and New Orleans buying. Chicago: Wheat: Unchanged at ceilings. Corn: Unchanged at ceilings. Rye: Unchanged to 3-8 cents higher, sympathy with Winnipeg. Hogs: Steady and active at ceilings. Top $14.85. Cattle: Steady; steers slow, heifers active. Top $17.75.

Aircraft Machine
Gun Rate Of Fire
Stepped Up 50%

Washington — The .50-caliber machine gun, chief reliance of American fliers in their air fights during the recent war, has had its rate of fire stepped up by 50 percent, it is disclosed in the forthcoming issue of Army Ordnance by Col. Rene R. Studler.

The improved weapon can reach a rate of 1250 rounds a minute, as compared with a maximum of 850 for the wartime model. Of course, no machine gun is fired continuously for as much as a minute. But if 14 forward-bearing guns on a B-25 were to be fired in a combined, one-second burst, they would hurl 280
two-ounce slugs at the enemy during that short period, Col.
Studler points out.

The new piece is only one and one-half pounds heavier than its predecessor. Improved metals and at least 10 distinct technical improvements account for its redi-cally heightened performance.

Handball was introduced into the United States from Ireland about 1840.

Friction matches were invented in 1827.

Escanaban Aboard U. S. Ship Wrecked Near W. Scotland

Ernest John Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carlson, 609 First avenue south, Escanaba, was aboard the 7,000-ton Byron Darn-ton which was wrecked Sunday off the west coast of Scotland, his parents revealed yesterday.

The ship broke in half after the crew and passengers were removed from the vessel, which ran aground on the little island of Sanda, near Scotland.

At one time four lifeboats, two destroyers, two landing craft and a tug were standing by to render aid. The ship is owned by the United States War Shipping Administration. There were 15 passengers aboard.

Carlson is employed by the Baldwin and Cornelius company of New York and was returning from a business trip to Norway and Scotland.

Perkins Motorist Pays Fine Of $75

Marquette, Mich. — State police investigated two traffic mishaps early Saturday morning, arresting one driver on a charge of drunken driving and taking another to the hospital with minor injuries.

Charles LaChance, of Perkins, Mich., paid $75 fine and $4.80 costs in Municipal Judge John Siegel's court later in the day as a result of an accident in which he collided with a truck driven by Alvin B. Tuck, Presque Isle avenue, Marquette, about 2 Saturday morning. The crash occurred at Sands on County Road 553. Neither driver was injured, but both cars were badly damaged.

LaChance, state police said, was driving on the wrong side of the road. He was charged with drunken driving.

Seafaring New Englanders were so strongly opposed to the War of 1812 that they talked about seceding from the union.

Canada, with about 11,500,665 inhabitants, ranks first in population among the Dominions of the British Empire.

Inside Nazi Spy Nest

Confusion Hits Spy Center As Swedish Police Expel Wagner.

Stockholm, (NEA).—Arrest, in December, 1944, of the former manager of the German-owned Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau's Stockholm office sent Swedish police on a spy hunt, and caused considerable commotion in the "Radio Bureau."

Police charged John Alexander Loennegren with supplying the Gestapo information on a hundred or so Norwegian refugees, for a total consideration of 15,000 Kronor. Loennegren in turn confessed that his source of information had been Inspector Paulson, a high official of the Swedish Alien's Commission.

Paulson himself was arrested on Jan. 4, 1945, on charges of espionage and misuse of his official position. It turned out that this man, who for many years had been the chief supervisor of the activities of foreigners in Sweden, had been a paid Nazi agent all along.

The Paulson-Loennegren scandal caused an outcry in the Swedish press, which demanded that the foreign paymasters of this pair also should be called to account. After further investigation, the Stockholm Government, on Feb. 15, advised five members of the German Legation that their presence in the country was "no longer desirable," and that they were expected to leave shortly.

The list of undesirables was headed by Col. Fritz Wagner (the "Doctor"), chief of the Gestapo's foreign intelligence section (S.D.) in Stockholm, and his principal aide, August Finke ("Anke"). Both left Sweden on Feb. 21.

The expulsion of these two key Gestapo agents caused general confusion at Nazi spy headquarters in Stockholm, some of it in military quarters. A number of messages from Herr X's photostatic dossier bear eloquent testimony on this.

A dispatch, No. 8, from Berlin, Feb. 19, orders:

"Doctor will immediately upon his return report to Major Wagner, Haus des Deutschen Fernverkehrs, (House of German Telecommunications), Room 524. Telephone OKW J 2-67-378, for further instructions from Otto and assignment of quarters. Rest of personnel remains."

(Note the curious fact that Major Wagner, while maintaining headquarters at the "House of German Telecommunications," has an OKW, or High Command, telephone number!)

Attached to this telegraphic order was the inter-office memo: "Accordingly, the following employees of Bureau Wagner remain here in Sweden: Blokow, Henke (courier), Roehmet, Schuhmann, and the S.S. (Elite Guard) special leader Schott, who is attached to the Consulate at Gothenburg."

On Feb. 21, the Radio Bureau relays the following inquiry to Berlin, addressed to "Egmont":

"On Feb. 19, the head of the England Committee ("Leiter des England Ausschusses"), Hesse, arrived here in Stockholm on a visit of 10-14 days. Do you know about this visit and its background, and are you interested in further information about it? Request an immediate reply as H. perhaps also will get in touch with me."

The sender of this communication was Legation Secretary Kraemer, alias "Hasso," (he is not to be confused with the new arrival, Hesse).

The recipient—"Egmont"—was a man high up in the ranks of the S. D., (named Bisselhar Wirsing,) who had written a book about the United States shortly before the war. Wirsing, former editor-in-chief of the "Muenchner Neueste Nachrichten," Munich's largest daily, was also a member of the Reich Chamber of Culture and a close friend and associate of Himmler's.

Hesse's arrival in Stockholm coincided with the forced departure of Col. Wagner and his staff, but he was not sent to replace the Gestapo chieftain. Indeed, on Feb. 23, "Pandur" sends this revealing dispatch to Berlin:

"1. In view of the fact that the Kommando Meldegebiet (Command and Report District, i.e. the Gestapo office Bureau Wagner) has been without a chief since Feb. 20, and no orders have been received from you, I have decided personally to take over the internal treasury and administrative supervision."

"2. Since the departure of the Doctor (Wagner), the Legation has been referring to me all cases relating to K.M.III."

"3. Request information as to: (a) Whether it is planned to fill the vacancy with a new chief; (b) If yes, who has been selected for the post and when may he be expected to arrive here; (c) Whether I shall continue to exercise the internal supervision until the new appointee arrives; (d) In case the host country (Sweden) refuses to grant an entry permit to the person in question, is K.M. then to be liquidated?"

In this message—despite the bureaucratic style used—the bitter rivalry, the mutual distrust, and the relentless tug-of-war between the two spy outfits are fully apparent.

"Pandur" hopes with all his heart that nobody else will be sent by the Gestapo to take the place of the expelled Wagner, or, if somebody does show up, that the Swedes won't let him in. In the meantime, he himself has taken over the Gestapo shop.

Even more revealing is another dispatch sent on the same day to Berlin by "Pandur" and "Hasso" jointly—a unique occurrence, indicative of its importance. They radio:

"In view of the continually deteriorating situation, both Pandur and Hasso consider that a personal interview at the suggested date—March 6-9—is absolutely necessary. Will therefore arrive in Berlin by official plane. Further postponement of meeting inadvisable as fundamental issues have to be discussed."

Now comes the real tip-off, in another of those informal postscripts for office use only:

"Regarding these telegrams: It has been observed that a new Himmler man has made his appearance at the RHSA ('Reichs Haupt Sicherheits Amt,' or Chief Security Office) who thinks everybody else is a slacker. On the other hand, Kraemer and Wenzlau understand clearly that their liberty of movement will be more and more restricted, especially since Link's supervision is exercised in rather clumsy fashion."

"Generally speaking, the atmosphere has been tense since Wagner's departure, with the result that at the MILA (office of the Military Attache) all persons on duty will be equipped with automatic pistols as of March 1."

GREAT LAKES SEAMEN READY

Local Sailors Leaving For Ships Now In Winter Docks

Seamen of the Great Lakes from the Escanaba area have already started leaving to board their ships and get them ready for the summer shipping. Rumor among these inland seadogs has it that although most of them expect to be aboard or definitely leaving for their ships between now and April 1, actual dates of starting the season's shipping will probably be a little later than usual.

Merrill B. Gibbs, 1613 Second avenue north, left Saturday morning for Ashtabula, Ohio, where he will board a Pickands Mather Steamship company boat as second engineer. Steven Smokovitch of 1527 North 18th street, has received his orders and will leave Wednesday morning for Toledo, Ohio, where he will board the Steamer Ben E. Tate as watchman. Steven Simicic will also leave tomorrow for Cleveland to help prepare his ship for the summer runs.

Those of the Escanaba crew who will be leaving in the near future to board their ships now at winter docks are: Helmer T. Krussell, 126 North 23rd street, first mate; Dave Oslund and Richard Sanville, both of Cornell and both deck washers. All three will go aboard the Steamer J. J. Sullivan of the Hutchinson & Co. line at Indiana Harbor, Ill. Ernie Four-nier expects to be called to a meeting of chiefs and captains to be held in Cleveland the week of March 24. He expects to ship as chief engineer on the Steamer W. H. McGean at Toledo. William (Ole) Johnson, Escanaba, will ship with him as second assistant engineer on the McGean. August Eckstrom of South Ford River will go as first mate aboard the Steamer Palmer now at Toledo, Ohio; Chet Nichol is to captain the barge Manila now at Buffalo, N. Y.; Matt Foss will ship as a fireman on the same boat. Grant Henderson will go as a first mate on the Steamer Dixon of the Steel Trust lines.

Iron River Mill Acquires Planer

Iron River.—A new heavy-duty planing machine has been installed in the sash-and-door factory of Alphonse Jean, 1200 W. Minckler street, in Iron River.

Jean purchased the electrically-powered planer from the Ford lumber mill at L'Anse and completed the installation here last week. The planer has a capacity of 20,000 feet of lumber a day, one of the largest planers in the Upper Peninsula.

A volume of work is on hand at the Jean mill. Several carloads of lumber on the North Western siding are being planed.

Jean revealed an order from the Carl Miller Lumber company of Milwaukee for the planing of 10 carloads of lumber. The lumber is from logs to be shipped from Ontonagon to the A. J. Smith saw-mill in the Hilltop addition. Cars of lumber sawed at the Smith mill will be switched down the hill to the Jean mill for the planing process and from there will be shipped to Milwaukee.
